

Do-It-Yourself Car Window Tinting: Some Things You Should Consider

You can save money by tinting your car yourself. You can find tinting kits online for as little as 10 dollars. This does not include the $15-25 cost of the half dozen tools you will need. This is a tempting offer as you could reduce glare, improve privacy, decrease theft potential and add a nice look to your favorite ride for $35 or less.

This is the plus side. But the real question is, how easy is it to apply the tint? Does it look professional and last for as long? The preparation is key. You will want the interior of your car windows to look spotless when you apply tint. All dirt and dust particles must be removed using the right cleaning chemicals and a razor. Be careful not to scratch the glass when cleaning. Any scratch will show through the tint. car window tinting doral

The hair of your dog can be very difficult to manage. The hair must be removed from the window. Additionally, as you move about the car, you will pick up hair on the floor and seat surfaces. The tint may need to be applied to the glass several times before you can wipe it clean. This could cause a lot of damage to your car and may require you to have it professionally cleaned. A second problem is the felt-like spacer bar that can be found at bottom of roll-up windows. It is necessary to cover the felt with something like masking tape to keep tiny hairs and other debris from getting under the tint film.

It is common for rubber door window seals to get in the way when it comes to cleaning and installation. You can remove them using expensive ducttape. So metimes it is better to just remove them completely. Sometimes, it is necessary to take out the doors of certain car models. car window tinting near me The most challenging part of fitting tint to the back of any car's window is the installation. Sometimes, it is difficult to get the tint on the back window of a car. So metimes, it may be necessary to take out the entire back deck.